THE MILLS DRY GOODS CO.

For many years this headline, "Seen From the Gallery," has been something of a joke, as the spectator wandered at will about the floors of the legislative meeting places; but hereafter it shall be a fact; the gallery is the only safe place from which to view the deliberations of the 1911 legislature. The Hodges-Ganase fist fight fills him with alarm.

In days ago the Kansas senate was a place of polite but caustic conversation, of flowery but poisonous repartee. In the days of Hon. Dumont Smith, Hon. Ballie Waggener, Hon. Sam Fitzpatrick, Hon. Thomas Nottger, et al., the senate was so bland and polite that one senator would beg the pardon of another at least four times while raising a doubt as to his veracity. Well, as we remember the first time the previous question was moved in nearly ten years. Hon. Joe Dole came to the senate, and turned the trick. In fact, he ennobled his name in two occasions; he moved the previous question, and then, as the senator moved the previous question, he moved the previous question. On that memorable afternoon some of the best three-foot valises of oratory had been tapped, and were flowing freely when the senator from Wabancue moved the previous question. F. Dumont Smith dropped his monocle and private telephone exchange in his astonishment.

"Aw, don't do that," he begged of the new senator. "It's against precedent and a disgrace to the senate." The other Chesterfields agreed with him, and attested their disfavor by a deep groan.

And what, may one ask, would these senators have done had they been on the job yesterday? How would they have taken the Senator from Coffey's open insult to the Senator from Johnson, and that senator's retort in the Kansas language? And then, as the last straw, the action of the Senator from Smith, who clamped the lid on the boiling cauldron by moving the previous question?

Just as soon as the gallery spectator gets his sheet-iron shirt back from the repair shop, he will again visit the Kansas senate, and not before.

From Crawford county comes a legislator with a purpose; his purpose is to locate that inheritance tax thing and sweat it about four points above the patella. Right freely does he admit that the inheritance tax is an iniquitous measure, and that his constituents concur with him in the belief that it should be consigned to the cannery.

The Democratic Member From Crawford.

This particular Gentleman from Crawford is a Democrat, and although mild and inoffensive in appearance, there is a suspicion that he is loaded for bear. His name is Caslin, and he wants what he wants when he wants it.

Aside from his burning desire to secure the pelt of the inheritance tax law, Mr. Caslin has other desires. One of them is to create a state school of mines and mining, and locate the same in his district.

Recurring to the incident in the senate: In days of long ago it was customary for a member who had been maligned to announce that a friend would meet a friend of the maligned and arrange details. Those were the good old days when differences of the kind were settled cleanly and quickly by an exchange of ounce stags, or a bag with nice clean stickars. The "Higher Civilization" leaves the modern gentleman with no recourse except the exchange, at short range, of impolite utterances or right hooks.

ROOSEVELT GIVES A TALK.

Addresses Neighbors and Townspeople on His African Trip.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Jan. 24.—Theodore Roosevelt gave a lecture to his neighbors and townspeople here last night on his African trip. The audience of 1,500 persons filled the local theater to its capacity. No children were admitted and the lecture will be repeated at the high school today for the benefit of the children.

The nearest Colonel Roosevelt came, in the course of his talk, to a political reference was his assertion that a hipopotamus was like some persons—"the kinder you treat them the less they think of you."

MRS. JONES USES A REVOLVER.

Tries Ineffectually to Kill Her Recalcitrant Spouse.

T. W. Jones, the wealthy negro of Chicago who has invested in Topeka property and made his home at Thirteenth and Tyler streets, was the target of five bullets fired by his wife last night. Jones was attempting to remove half his furniture from the house. He had attempted to oust the wife a month ago but was balked by a Winchester. He was not hurt.

"OPENING GUN" TRIED

The National Republican Progressive League Already at Work.

New York, Jan. 24.—The National Republican Progressive League, whose organization was announced Monday in dispatches from Washington, already has started its campaign in New York state. The "opening gun" was fired at a dinner of 200 prominent New York Republicans last night. An effort will be made this week to enroll Colonel Roosevelt.

Representative Poindexter, of Washington, was selected to introduce the new organization to New York state.

"The only thing that can be said about the league," he declared, "is that its constitution and the announcement of the principles for which it stands—all of which could be written on a sheet of note paper—tell the whole story. Its constitution directly limits the activities of the league to the fulfillment of the principles announced. It has no other object except to promote the movement which was begun in congress a year ago, and which is first grounded in the west that it cannot be ignored or displaced."

In answer to a question as to whose movement it is, I can say very definitely that it is no man's movement, but belongs to the people. The movement is as broad as the number of those behind it. It is not organized to advance the interests of political, or other, or of any one in it. I may say parenthetically that it is against the buying of seats in the United States senate.

"The word 'insurgent' you know, used to be a term of opprobrium, but now is a word of honor, and high repute. If there's one reason why the insurgent movement has wide acceptance in the west it is because the people out there are accustomed to freedom and independence from dictation. The speaker of the New York assembly once said in an address on the direct primary law that the people of this country are not able to govern themselves, but that they need leaders to do that work for them. This sentiment is not accepted in the west."

"Here are the essentials of any platform of real control of government by the people:

1. Direct primary, direct legislation, a severe corrupt practices act, the extension of the primary to the election of delegates to national conventions, and the Australian ballot."

SWEARINGEN WILL PAY IT.

Jeweler Dismisses Appeal From Fine for Assaulting Mrs. Mills.

Frank W. Swearingen, the jeweler and his wife, charged with assault and battery upon Mrs. Clara Mills and convicted in the district court last evening. The fines imposed in the city court were $50 for Swearingen and $10 for his wife. They now elect to pay these as well as the costs of the case and the appeal.

SOCIETY WOMEN WASH THEIR OWN HAIR

"Home shampooing among society women is rapidly gaining in popularity," says Mae Martyn, writing for the Pittsburg Dispatch. "This is not a fad or fancy, but rather because splendid results are attained in this manner, through the use of shampoo. It would have luxurious growth of glossy hair, try this easy way of shampooing. Dissolve a teaspoonful of cantharides in a teaspoon of hot water, then pour on the scalp and rub vigorously for a few minutes, after which the hair and scalp should be rinsed carefully. When the hair is dry you will be delighted with its fluffy, glossy condition. While cantharides is not expensive, you should be careful to get it in an original package."

A SEMI-WEEKLY PUBLICATION OF SUGGESTIONS TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Published Every Tuesday and Friday in The State Journal From The Ideal Bakery, 121 West Sixth Street, Topeka, Kan.

VOL. 2. January 24 No. 7.

WHOLESALE COOKIES, FRESH FROM THE OVEN.

Why should they not be superior to any such goods you can buy at the grocers? The ordinary factory-made cookies, wafers, etc., are baked many, many weeks before they reach your table and the ingredients used are not always what would be termed strictly wholesome by our standards.

We make an endless variety of cookies and the like, using only materials that are absolutely clean and wholesome. The baking is not excelled in any factory in America. In buying your cookies, wafers, eat, here, you are not only assured of cleanliness, wholesomeness and perfect baking, but you get them absolutely fresh, which adds wonderfully to their general goodness.

A few of the varieties we make are, coconut, ginger, oatmeal, coconut, peanut bars, fig bars, lemon snaps, graham, currant, Scotch and Loh's. Your choice from this big assortment at only 10c a dozen.

FANCY CAKES THAT YOU CAN SERVE WITH REAL PRIDE.

We do not believe that better cakes were ever made than our chocolate, strawberry, pineapple, cherry, caramel, nut and angel food. The sponge is very light and flaky, yet thoroughly rich and delicious. The icing is neither soft and sticky nor hard and brittle; simply a smooth rich creamy coating spread thickly over the entire cake. The large square size sell at 40c each, while the round ones are 25c.

Just try one of these cakes on. If it is a company meal you can rest assured it will please.

CREAM HORNS—A DELICIOUS AND POPULAR Dainty.

Those horns or cones are made of a crisp roll dough; baked brown and sugar coated. Inside, they are filled to the brim with a luscious, rich, marsh-mallow cream. You eat them just like ice cream cones, but of course they are much nicer and richer. We sell hundreds of them daily at 30c a dozen or two for 5c.

MADAM! OF COURSE YOU KNOW THE ADVANTAGE OF COOKING MEATS IN LARGE PIECES.

The superior flavor—the juicier condition—the appetizing quality of meats cooked in large quantities at slow simmering heat!

That's partly why our ready-cooked meats are so much by those who have tried them. The rest is accounted for by the extra care we take in selecting the very choicest hams, roasts, chickens, oysters, etc., only

EVENING CHAT

BY RUTH CAMERON.

I wonder if there is anything more characteristic of the haste of the age than the average handwriting.

Have you ever noticed how few people nowadays ALWAYS form ALL of their letters? How rare is the person who doesn't OCCASIONALLY omit a loop of the "m" or chop off the last letter in a word?

To say nothing of the folks who are guilty of these and similar carelessness continually.

Of course there are some people who habitually write clear business-like hands, but a sort of suggestive impressionism, a sort of sketchy leave to your guess the rest seems to me to be the prevalent note of the present day chirography.

Just as with an indistinct talker one must help out the ears a good deal with the eyes, so with these indistinct writers one must assist the eye with the brain.

That is, one cannot read wholly by the characters, but must be helped out by what one expects to find.

I am especially impressed with this because of the many letters I get through this column from unknown friends.

I can almost always get the context of these letters by using a little common sense when the writing is uncertain, but when it comes to the signature, I am very frequently at sea, for there I must depend wholly upon the characters.

And whether "m" or "n" or "r" is meant by this loop, or whether that is an "e" at the end of the name or merely a quirk or perhaps an "s," I find myself often unable to decide.

In which connection I want to ask the pardon of any people to whom I have sent letters spelling their names or addresses wrongly. Truly, it wasn't carelessness. It was just that my one best guess was wrong.

Now, I know many people who are aware of the illegibility of their penmanship and consider it a good joke or even something to be almost proud of as a sign of genius.

I think that's decidedly a mistaken attitude. Imperfect penmanship is one of my tendencies and I'm very much ashamed of it.

I think the habit of talking so quickly as to speak indistinctly and of writing so rapidly as to write illegibly are a part of the bad tendencies of the time towards undue haste in thinking and living.

We can't all write prettily. We can't all write even strongly. But we can all form every one of our letters—dot our "i's," cross our "t's" on the "t" itself and not all over the neighboring "l's" and "n's," etc.—and in general recommend ourselves by being accurate and not slipshod in our penmanship. Can't we?

The Growth OF CHILDREN

depends upon proper nourishment—a balanced ration. The most frequent lack is bone-forming material, causing soft, weak, diseased, crooked bones.

Scott's Emulsion supplies every element needed. It's a balanced ration for bone as well as flesh. Every child should have a small dose daily.
